STORIES OF THE STREETS.

"No wonder business in general lines is dull," said an automobile dealer Saturday. "I am selling cars, but I must admit that there too many fellows buying automobiles who really cannot afford to buy a baby buggy. Look at that bunch of cars over there," he said as he pointed to six or eight standing in the garage. "None of them cost less than a thousand dollars, none are more than three seasons old, and yet today there is not one of them that would sell for five hundred. The depreciation of a car is enormous, and yet depreciation is the last thing considered by a man when he buys a car; whereas it should be the first. The depreciation of cars in Lincoln county is not less than $125,000 per year. Add to this the gasoline, lubricant and repair bills, and he costs is another $100,000. Here is $225,000 a year that now is expended for cars whereas ten years ago this sum went through the several lines of commercial business. What is true in Lincoln county is true of every county in the state, and what is true of Nebraska is true of every state in the union. The automobile promises to do more toward the financial ruin of the country than any other thing."

Auto tourists from the east have certainly had "grief" the past ten days, and without stopping to consider that the rains in Nebraska have been unprecedented, they severely condemn the Lincoln Highway. A Packard six from New York arrived Saturday with mud from front to back and from rim to top. "Just west of Grand Island," said the driver, "we got stuck in the mud. A big car behind attempted to pull us out but failed; we sent into town and got six mules, but their combined power failed to get us out. We sent in again, and got a twenty horse power motor tractor engine and a wire cable and managed to get out." During the past week travel had been diverted from Kearney around Arnold over the "black and white" route, to this city, but even that route has its bad stretches.

The damp cool weather has affected fellows other than farmers who view with uncomplacency the hay or alfalfa that should be in the stack or the corn that instead of being knee high on July 4th is scarcely six inches. Cool weather is not conducive to the sale of ice cream and soft drinks, and these dealers are complaining; Palm Beach suits, light underwear and straw hats are slow sale in cool, damp weather, and therefore the clothing man complains; the cool weather calls for suits rather than lingerie gowns for the ladies, hence the dry goods man isn't pleased with the business conditions, and thus it goes ever and anon; we complain if it's dry; we kick if it's wet; conditions are never just as we want them.

ADVISES ALFALFA AS A CURE FOR THE BLUES

A Chicago dispatch dated July 3d says: Alfalfa as a remedy for indigestion and mental depression was recommended today by Dr. Alexander L. Blackwood of Chicago, at the closing session of the annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

Dr. Blackwood told of experiments made with the new remedy on patients at a Chicago hospital. "During the last year observations were made of the action of alfalfa on seventeen persons," he said. "All of them noted that they grew so hungry that they could scarcely wait for their meals. Their minds were clear and bright, all bodily functions were stimulated, and it was impossible to have the blues."

The alfalfa is converted into tinctures and administered internally. Its use, according to Dr. Blackwood, was accompanied by an immediate delightful feeling of well being, increased appetite and great improvement in weight.

"All bodily functions were stimulated and it was impossible to have the blues," said the physician's report.

"The drug is known as Medicago Sativa and is manifested by the same effects on guinea pigs and rabbits as on humans."

"Dr. Ben Bradley of Hamlet, O., also has made experiments with alfalfa," said Dr. Blackwood, "and he believes it to be the coming drug. It stimulates digestion and will prove of great value in dealing with loss of appetite. It does not act as a stimulant in the same sense as liquor."

While coming down from Sutherland the other evening Jim McDonald was moseying along in his Chalmers six, and looking around saw Dr. Crook hitting a pace with his National. Jim spurred up to forty, then fifty, but Doc was gaining on him; he opened up to fifty-five, then sixty, but on came Doc like the wind--zip and he was past and Jim was "eating his dust." Doc's speedometer stood on the seventy mark for nearly two minutes. "Going some, well I guess yes," said the fast-gaited Doc.

Woman Cures Horse Colic.

The men were away as usual. The horse was bad. A lone woman could not "drench" in the old way. She called up a neighbor and her men were away—but: "We have Farris Colic Remedy that you drop on the horse's tongue and the horse was well when the men came home. Moral: Get Farris Colic Remedy so the women can cure horse colic. We sell it at 50c a bottle on the Money Back Plan. Sold by A. F. Pink.

Lansing-Richards.
A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mrs. Sam Morant, Lamoni, Ia., on Tuesday afternoon, June 22, 1915, at five o'clock, the occasion being the marriage of Frederick M. Lansing, of Omaha, Neb., and Miss Myrtle Richards of North Platte, Neb., sister of Mrs. Morant, Elder James E. Kelly being the officiating minister.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, very beautifully played by Miss Amy Vredenburg, the groom and Master Joseph Richards, by whom the groom was attended, took their places under a large white wedding bell, from which yellow and white streamers were festooned and awaited the bride, who was accompanied by her niece Miss Mabel Morant and three little friends, Miss Hope Grenawalt and Kelley Anderson, strewing the path with flowers and by Richard Anderson bearing the ring.

The color scheme being yellow and white the house was decorated with yellow and white tulle and wild flowers.

After congratulations to the young people, those present took their places at the tables prepared previously on the lawn and a three course wedding dinner was served.

About seventy guests were present and Mr. and Mrs. Lansing were the recipients of many beautiful and very useful gifts.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Richards of this city and in this place has she spent the greater part of her life. She is a graduate of the commercial and music department of Graceland college, Lamoni, Ia., and for the past two and a half years has been manager of the local office of the Postal Telegraph Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansing left Wednesday evening for Chicago and the lakes. They will be at home to their friends after Sept. 1 at Omaha where Mr. Lansing holds a responsible position with the Postal Telegraph Company, and with which company he has been for over ten years.

Attempt to Assassinate Morgan.
An attempt to assassinate J. P. Morgan at his country home near Glenn Cove, L. L. was made Saturday. His assailant is a man named Holt, of Dallas, Texas, a former instructor in German in Cornell university, and his reason for the act is that Morgan would not use his influence in stopping the importation of munitions of war to Europe. Two bullets entered Mr. Morgan in the region of his right hip, but the wounds are not considered dangerous to his life.

The man who shot Mr. Morgan arrived at Glenn Cove Saturday morning on the 8:53 train, hired an automobile and went to the Morgan home on Matinecock Point. He rang the bell, and when the butler answered, called for Mr. Morgan. He said that he was an old friend of Mr. Morgan, but was refused admission to the house.

The man then pressed a pistol against the stomach of the butler, who screamed, and pushed his way past the servant into the hall. Mr. Morgan was approaching the front door through the hall at the time. He asked what the trouble was. The answer was a shot, which took effect in the hip.

Mr. Morgan staggered and fell into a chair. The butler, once the assailant's back was turned, picked up a brass coal hod from the fire-place and brought it down on the assailant's head, but too late to prevent a second shot.

The butler fell on the man, wrested the weapon away and overpowered him. Servants came running in answer to his call and the sheriff's office and a physician were telephoned.

Miss Erma Barraclough spent Saturday in Hershey with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McGovern, of Brady, are visiting this week with the former's sister Mrs. H. A. Donaldson.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross left Saturday for Cozad where they will visit relatives for a week or more.
